Аннотация. Во время Второй мировой войны все отрасли были ориентированы на войну и адаптированы для службы на фронте. Даже работники печати сумели внести свой вклад в дело фронта, в том числе в 1942 году под лозунгом «Мы пошлем подарок нашим отважным бойцам» редакции «Хорезмской хакикати» и «Хорезмской правды», коллектив типографии выделили фронту однодневный заработок. В статье на основе материалов газет «Хорезм хакикати» и «Хорезмская правда» анализируется вклад хорезмийцев в войну.

Ключевые слова: пресса, Вторая мировая война, вклад в развитие фронта, социально-экономическое положение региона, судьба перемещенного населения.

In 1942, as the fighting at the front intensified, the army's need for weapons and ammunition increased, and the Uzbek people were not left out of this process. The entire population of the Khorezm region collectively raised 4 million 597 thousand soums for the construction of the squadron and tank column. The people of Khorezm, especially the residents of the Khazorasp district, allocated 1 million 320 thousand soums for the construction fund, the Gurlan district allocated 395 thousand soums, the Shovot district allocated 849 thousand soums, the Kushkupir district allocated 546 thousand soums, and the Yangiarik district allocated 380 thousand soums²⁴. In 1943, he also actively participated in the organization of the "Tractor Driver of Uzbekistan" column in the Khorezm region²⁵. In 1943, medical workers collected 100,000 soums for the construction of medical planes²⁶. Between 1941 and 1944, the Uzbek people contributed 450 million soums to the construction of tanks and aircraft²⁷.

Press workers also managed to contribute to the front, including in 1942, under the slogan "We will send a gift to our brave fighters"²⁸ the editorial staff of "Khorezm Truth," "Khorezmskaya Pravda," and the printing staff donated a day's salary to the front. In addition, the fact that the editorial staff of E. Rahim sent parcels of clothes for the soldiers wounded on the battlefield, in which Airapetyants received a sheet, Alsalganova, Paloshina and Kruzhilin received a towel each, Shalimov a shirt, Bekmetova warm gloves, Masharipov two pairs of socks, in addition, the employees allocated 2 days of their monthly wages²⁹ for the front, although at first glance it seemed like an insignificant shipment in terms of scale, for the people of that time and environment it was equivalent to heroism on the battlefield. In addition, the articles also provided economic assistance to the population of the lands liberated from the German fascists. In particular, it was mentioned that 5 sheep and 1 ox were presented from the Uighur village³⁰. 7 tons of products for the front from Khazarasp district, including 590 kg of meat, 576 kg of oil, 2,460 kg of rice, 341 kg of turshak, 100 kg of wheat, etc. will be sent³¹. Between 1941 and 1944, 600 wagons of food and hundreds of thousands of sets of warm clothing were sent³². During the war years, the population of the Khorezm region raised 46 million 400 thousand soums just for the tank column and squadron³³. Despite the aid given to the front, a military tax was imposed on the people, and some districts (Khiva, Yangariq, Gurlan, Mang'it) that were lagging behind in this tax were even criticized³⁴. Night work has been introduced during the front month in Mang'it district³⁵.

Educators were not left out in this regard, namely, in 1942 they collected the sum of 1,230 soums for the construction of a tank column named after the People's Teacher³⁶. Or, in Mangit district, 54 people handed over bread cards to avoid receiving bread from the state for a month³⁷, residents of Kirov village of Urgench district bought state military loans as aid to the front³⁸, S. Jumaniyazov's article "Voroshilovchilar Hadyasy"³⁹ writes that residents of the Voroshilov collective farm of Kushkupir district prepared 3 parcels as a gift to the front, and are about to send another parcel, a number of articles were published under the column "Help of Khorezm workers to the front", in particular, under the column "Help of Khorezm workers to the fund" there were reports of "Money and loans to the defense fund", "Purchase of loan bonds and lottery tickets", "Cotton to the defense fund", "Food for fighters", "Warm clothes"⁴⁰, it can be seen that in agriculture, not only cotton products for the front, but also grain production were widely established in the oasis, In the article "Winter grain was sown on defense hectares"⁴¹ by Y. Rasulov, information is provided about the fact that 2 hectares of winter grain were planted in the defense fund in the Chikirchi village council of Khiva district. Even 2nd grade students sent parcels for the front, contributing to the victory⁴².

In order to satisfy the demands of the front, articles on the topic "Three percent every day"⁴³ were constantly published. Most importantly, the "Stakhanovist" movement, which was considered one of the reasons for the economic crisis of the Soviet Union, was intensified during World War II under the pretext of "helping the front". This movement was constantly covered in the press. As evidence, one can cite M. Ruzmetov's article in the "Khorezm Haqiqat" newspaper on the topic "Two or three norms are being fulfilled every day", in which members of the Telman collective farm of the Uyghur rural council in Urgench district reported that in response to the call of the collective farmers of the Tashkent region to fulfill 2-3 norms more per day, the two or three norm movement and the Stakhanovist movement were actively working⁴⁴. A similar situation is presented in I. Abdullaev's article "We both study and work"⁴⁵, in which the article talks about how students of the "Madaniyat" primary school in the village of Kiyot in the Shovot district study until noon and then pick cotton in the fields of the collective farm from noon until evening. Unfortunately, it is in the newspaper "Khorezm Haqiqati" that 99 percent of the population is illiterate⁴⁶. Given the current state of education, raising a literate generation can be considered an impossible task. Even S. Bakhtiy reports that along with schoolchildren, older people are also busy in the agricultural sector⁴⁷.

The lack of attendance and teaching in schools in Gurlan and Urgench districts was also reported in the press⁴⁸. M. Jumaniyazov's article mentioned that even after the war, schoolchildren's participation in agriculture continued without leaving school. Students of the Voroshilov secondary school in the Kushkupir district: Ogiljon Ruzimatova, 96 kilograms, and Nurposhsha Murodova, 72 kilograms of first-grade cocoons were handed over to the state⁴⁹.

The February 20, 1942 issue of the newspaper "Khorezm Haqiqatii" reported that the first echelon of the region destined for the front had departed. The echelon contained a large amount of food, meat, rice, butter, chicken, eggs, honey, wine and other products, even musical instruments, loaded into 5 cars⁵⁰.

In March 1942, 5 million 240 thousand soums were accumulated in the regional state bank for the defense fund, 3 million 262 thousand soums were handed over in state bonds⁵¹. Residents of Urgench city donated about one and a half million in cash, the Khanka district donated 609 thousand soums, the Yangiarik district donated 618 thousand soums, and the Khiva district donated 595 thousand soums. In 1942, teachers of the Khanka district decided to donate one day's salary to the fund for the construction of a new airplane squadron, reports "Khorezm Haqiqi"⁵².

The press also published reports on the situation of the population evacuated from the areas where the World War was taking place, including that 476 households of those who had moved in 1941 were provided with housing, and 447 households were placed in factories, artels, and other enterprises in the city⁵³. This news item mentions that the city council provided one-time assistance of 5,393 soums to 71 households from newly
